Pursuit Announces New Leader for Glacier Park Collection

COLUMBIA FALLS, MT– (April 30, 2019) – Pursuit is pleased to welcome Gary Rodgers as Vice President and General Manager of the Glacier Park Collection. In his new role, Rodgers is responsible for leading the team in delivering iconic, unforgettable and inspiring travel experiences in and around Glacier and Waterton Lakes national parks. Rodgers succeeds Ron Cadrette, who is retiring after a successful seven-year tenure.

“Gary’s proven track record in nurturing and energizing teams, along with his rich background in delivering exceptional hospitality experiences, makes him the ideal leader to enhance Pursuit’s stewardship and re-investment initiatives across this important geography,” said David Barry, President, Pursuit.

Rodgers joins Pursuit with more than 30 years of industry experience, most recently as President and General Manager of Copper Mountain Resort in Colorado, where he led a robust team of travel professionals across an expansive accommodation, attraction and culinary portfolio. Prior to that, Rodgers held notable senior executive positions across Copper Mountain Resort and its parent company Intrawest (now Alterra), in addition to Whistler Blackcomb Mountain in British Columbia.

“I am honored to have the opportunity to join such a passionate organization dedicated to preserving and protecting the authenticity of such an iconic place,” said Rodgers. “Following the exceptional leadership of Ron Cadrette, I look forward to continuing Pursuit’s commitment in supporting and elevating authentic tourism experiences in and around Glacier and Waterton Lakes national parks.”

Barry added, “I would like to thank Ron for his accomplishments and contributions to the current success of Pursuit’s Glacier Park Collection. Ron has helped define Pursuit’s hospitality initiatives in the region and has built a clear path for the Montana team to thrive.”

The Glacier Park Collection includes the historic properties of Glacier Park Lodge and Prince of Wales Hotel. The portfolio includes accommodation, culinary and retail experiences located in and around Glacier National Park with Motel Lake McDonald, Apgar Village Lodge and Cabins and Grouse Mountain Lodge in Whitefish. The collection also features two village experiences at the bookends of the Going-to-the-Sun Road with St Mary and West Glacier villages. The collection also features the recently developed Tiny Homes in St Mary along with the soon-to-launch West Glacier RV Park & Cabins.
